

Wave Of Change Ask The Expert webinar

with author, illustrator and sustainability advisor to the water sector, Meg Humphrys

Do you love our watery places?

Are you concerned about the way our water resources are changing?

Do you have ideas about how to help?

Submit your questions and ideas for a chat with our expert !

Meg Humphrys is passionate about using art and story to explore science. Her two books, When Water Lost Her Way and Wave Of Change are excellent resources.

- 1. Tune into the topic first by viewing a reading of *Wave of Change
- 2. Generate questions / reflections / ideas you'd like raised with Meg – about herself, her work, her story Wave Of Change or climate change.
(these will be shared / asked on your behalf during the interview with the recording made available later for on-demand viewing)
- 3. Email submissions labelled with student, class and school name to riverdetectives@nccma.vic.gov.au by Tuesday 29th October.*

Your school could WIN one of three copies of Wave Of Change kindly donated by Meg
